Business Meeting

Old business:

The President welcomed members and visitors and shared information sheets that may be of use to them. He reminded everyone that Apple quick tips of the week are available on iTunes. They can be downloaded or the user may subscribe to them. He also mentioned that two computers and a scanner have been donated to CASI and that possibly at sometime some members would be willing to help people over there who are working with photos.

New business:

Don has a trial copy of iWorks 08 if anyone is interested.

Treasures Report:

The balance is $965.27. The new treasure has set up the an online account.

January Program

Subscribing to QCMug Google Group by Don Patridge

Because of the problems with the current QCMug web site, the club has started a group on the Google Groups web site. Don tried to show members how to sign up for this group. It was difficult to demonstrate this due to the settings on the club computer.

(The secretary tried to take notes but didn't get much down. The tape of the meeting didn't work so the notes are very brief) Sorry!

<http://groups.google.com/group/qcmug> is the website for the group. If you type in this url and you have not signed up for the group, you will be asked to create a Google account, if you do not have one and to apply for membership. You will have to be approved by Don to join. If you are invited, you will still need a Google account, but will not have to wait for approval. Once you have your Google account and approval, you may begin to use the group page.

The next meeting will be at 6:30 on Tuesday, February 19 at the Bettendorf Library

Respectfully submitted, Kathy Schroeder. QCMug secretary
